Full information for each candidate is given below, on a separate page for each candidate.

Following discussions, it was agreed that CSCG would nominate three candidates for the MAG: Norbert Bollow, Jeremy Malcolm, and Arsene Tungali. The chair of the NomCom filled in the UN nomination forms accordingly. The text for each candidate was prefixed by the following: "This nomination has been endorsed by the Civil Society Coordination Group (CSCG), on the basis of an open process. Nine candidatures were submitted for consideration and three were retained. CSCG is of the view that these candidates meet the requirements to be members of MAG."

Following further discussions, the following was sent to the IGF secretariat by E-Mail: "Please note that the primary nomination from the Civil Society Coordination Group is Mr Norbert Bollow, the secondary nomination is Mr Jeremy Malcolm, and the tertiary nomination is Mr Arsene Tungali. That is, the order of priority of our nominations is (1) Bollow, (2) Malcolm, and (3) Tungali."

Surname: Arsene

First Name: Tungali

Job Title: Executive Director

Organization: Rudi International

City of Residence: Goma

Country of Residence: Democratic Republic of Congo

Nationality: Congolese (DRC)

Justification:

I am participating in IG discussions since 2011. I am Co-coordinator of the Civil Society Internet Governance Caucus and a member of the Civil Society Coordination Group.

I am associated with organizations such as the Internet Society (as an Ambassador to the IGF), APC (through the African School on IG), ICANN and AFRINIC to name few. This has given me a broad understanding of the IG ecosystem, and put me in a position to understand the needs of CS as a group.

At the IGF 2016, I am a session co-organizer, a panel speaker and will serve as remote moderator of the Dynamic Coalition's Main Session. I am also following since its inception, the intercessional work on Policy Options for Connecting the Next Billion and extensively participating in the NRIs discussions. I am a co-facilitator for the annual global CS joint meeting. With all this, I am in a position to advise the MAG on the program of the next IGF.

Being involved in all these preparatory activities has given me the required knowledge on the way the IGF is prepared, its main components and the way the MAG functions; that's the reason why I am willing to bring in the passion and energy for the IGF to go through its remaining years of mandate, through a better organized MAG. I intend to also contribute and help it follow the recommendations of the CSTD WG on IGF improvements which will make it strong as an institution.

First Name: Analía

Job Title: Lawyer- Resesarcher

Organization: Aspis & Associates / University of Buenos Aires

City of Residence: Buenos Aires

Country of Residence: Argentina

Nationality(ies) (multiple nationalities can be specified, must be UN countries): Argentina

Justification for the nomination, providing relevant background information

I am willing to be a CS MAG representative both for a professional and personal reasons. For professional reasons because I do consider that this is a role that, I can not only perform but also that I have the experience to do so. In this sense, I have been for the past years deeply involved in IG themes, not only as part of CS but also in the academic and private sector, which gave me the tools to understand, debate and participate in IG policies including different but integrative perspectives. Accordingly, in the CS field, I have served as Co-chair of the Internet Governance Caucus for 2 years, I am know Co-charing the Internet Governance Civil Society Coordination Group, I am a member of the group on privacy of the Freedom online coalition (serving both as CS and academica) and I am an active member of the Argentinean community on IG, being the first hub for this themes that participated remotely in the main IG fora.

From an academic perspective, I am member of the Advisory Committe of the Global Internet Policy Observatory (EU), I am member of different academic groups such as the GIGAnet and the Cibersecurity Capacity Portal and a very active researcher (mostly in Spanish) in IG themes. In the private sector, I am a consultant for governments and cs for IG themes and related policies.

All these activies show that I do have a comprehensive view of what being a CS MAG means: responsibility, coherence, reasoning, inclusion, developpment, and many other values that I consider that a CS MAG should have, from a professional perspective. On the other hand, my personal reasons to apply are simple: I do want to contribute with my passion and my background to built something bigger than myself and that can impact on a global network.

Surname: Bollow

First Name: Norbert

Job Title: co-convenor

Organization: Just Net Coalition

City of Residence: Grüt (Gossau ZH)

Country of Residence: Switzerland

Nationality: Germany

Justification for the nomination, providing relevant background information (no more than 250 words)

Norbert has a background in mathematics, physics and IT, and he also has many years of experience in civil society activism on a wide range of information society topics including advocacy for human rights and Free and Open Source Software (FOSS). He has participated in the consultations that preceded the first IGF and he has since then participated in many IGFs, including several times as a workshop organizer. Norbert is a member and past co-coordinator of the Civil Society Internet Governance Caucus (IGC). He currently serves as president of Digital Society Switzerland, a human rights and consumer protection NGO addressing digital topics, see <https://digitale-gesellschaft.ch/> (website in German). He also serves as co-convenor of the Just Net Coalition <http://JustNetCoalition.org/>, an international civil society coalition with a focus on demands that the Internet must advance human rights and social justice, and that Internet governance must be truly democratic. The Just Net Coalition has among its members more than 30 organizations, some of them themselves networks, see <http://justnetcoalition.org/jnc-members>.

If appointed to the MAG, Norbert will focus on the following:

- * liaising with civil society in the European part of WEOG, and
- * working towards enabling the IGF to become a venue where discourses take place. (Discourse is a form of discussion in which assertions can be challenged and invalidated, and where it is assured that points which are valid and relevant become part of the output document.)

Surname: GUERRIER

First Name: REYNOLD

Job Title: CEO

Organization: GSIS

City of Residence: PORT-AU-PRINCE

Country of Residence: HAITI

Nationality(ies): HAITIAN

Justification for the nomination, providing relevant background information (no more than 250 words)

My name is Reynold Guerrier. I am a former President of AHTIC (2011/2013 terms) The only ICT association working in Haiti with individuals and enterprises. Our primary goal is to promote and protect the ICT sector best interests. I already attended 2 IGF in Rio de Janeiro Brazil in 2007 and Hyderabad, India in 2008 as an ISOC Ambassadors, a Preparatory Regional meeting in Bogota Colombia in September 2012. As a member of the MAG representing the Civil Society, I will work to revive the interest of attending the IGF among the Haitian ICT community. I will also be a role model for the Haitian youth ICT community to overcome their mental barrier that they can't be part of those organizations. I am personally a member of ISOC since 1999 and have helped setting up the Haitian ISOC chapter. Besides my own contribution to the discussions I will be sure that local points of view of the development of the Internet will be brought to the MAG table.

Surname: Oghia

First Name: Michael

Job Title: #netgov consultant & editor | iGmena communications manager | Geneva Internet Platform assistant curator

Organization: Independent | Hivos | DiploFoundation

City of Residence: Belgrade

Country of Residence: Serbia

Nationality(ies) (multiple nationalities can be specified, must be UN countries): USA

Justification for the nomination, providing relevant background information (no more than 250 words):

I am dedicated to Internet governance in general as well as the IGF process in particular. I attended my first IGF in 2015 after being chosen as an ISOC ambassador, and attended IGF 2016 as a returning ISOC ambassador. This sponsorship facilitated my active involvement in IGF processes, such as the IXP and IPv6 Best Practice Forums, spearheading work with Dynamic Coalitions, such as the DC on Core Internet Values (DCCIV) and the DC on the Internet and Climate Change, and getting involved in national and regional IGF initiatives, such as SEEDIG and EuroDIG.

In addition to this volunteer work within the IGF community, I consult full-time within the Internet governance ecosystem, having quit my former job in June 2016 so I can fully commit all of my professional capacity to this community. This has led me to work professionally with ISOC, iGmena (Hivos), and DiploFoundation.

My candidacy includes familiarity with the needs of multiple underserved groups, particularly of the Middle East and North Africa (since I work in this region and my ethnic background is Lebanese) and Southeastern Europe. It also includes youth. I am an active member of the Youth Coalition on Internet Governance (YCIG), and I advocate often for greater youth involvement.

I see myself as a bridge between stakeholder groups and regions, and I intend to bring positive energy and a collaborative spirit to the MAG if selected.

Surname: Malcolm

First Name: Jeremy

Job Title: Senior Global Policy Analyst

Organization: Electronic Frontier Foundation

City of Residence: Oakland

Country of Residence: United States

Nationality: Australian

Justification:

I am nominating myself as a MAG representative for civil society this year. I am a well-known civil society member of the Internet governance community, who has been actively involved at the IGF from the days of WSIS, and is one of few individuals who has attended every meeting since. I was the first scholar to publish a book about the IGF (in 2008), and have also continued regularly to publish articles, book chapters, and to write in my blog (igfwatch.org) about how the IGF could better fulfil its mandate. The outspoken views I have expressed on this topic may be one reason why I have never been selected for the IGF MAG, despite having applied most years.

I currently work at the Electronic Frontier Foundation as Senior Global Policy Analyst. I am a past co-coordinator of the Civil Society Internet Governance Caucus, founder of the Best Bits civil society network, past coordinator of the defunct Online Collaboration Dynamic Coalition, founding member of the Civil Society Coordination Group, proponent of a new Dynamic Coalition on Trade, Steering Committee member of the OECD's Civil Society Information Society Advisory Council (CSISAC), past closing session speaker for civil society at the IGF, past council member of the Australian chapter of ISOC, advisory committee member to the Stanford University Deliberative Poll @ IGF project, and lead volunteer organizer of the Dynamic Coalition issue survey in 2015 and 2016.

I have been proposing for many years that the IGF should become more effective at producing and communicating its outcomes, but this has been hampered by the under-representation of civil society at the MAG and the lack of civil society representatives with a deep understanding of the concepts and techniques of deliberative democracy that I believe are essential to make this happen. Although I have had some impact in introducing reforms to improve the IGF's outcome orientation through the pilot Deliberative Poll and Dynamic Coalition issue survey exercises, deeper reforms and more extensive support from the MAG are both required to empower the IGF to successfully produce useful and legitimate outputs.

Hago Dafalla

I need to involve in the IGF MAG to share my experience about Internet Governance process and to exchange ideas about Internet issues specific to the Arab region. I am interested to advance my knowledge about Internet Policy and I would like to be part of the regional and global discussion about topics related to the management of the Internet. Sure I will share my experience, ideas and knowledge and collaborate with other expert participants in the IGF MAG. This committee will bring participants together from various disciplines to learn about the Internet Governance process, and to exchange ideas regarding Internet issues specific to the all region from many angles, like policy, technology, and advocacy.

Internet Governance has become a mainstream issue, due largely to the controversial Snowden revelations that triggered a wave of outrage on a global scale, calling for more transparency on how the Internet is governed, for the decentralization of Internet management, and for protection of human rights on the Internet.

A recurring theme among the majority of Internet Governance the need for multi-stakeholder participation and wide consultation on issues pertaining to Internet policy and Internet governance. The involvement of the media was noted as being critical to enhancing awareness of Internet development and policy issues. It was also I mentioned that participation in Internet Governance processes should be on "equal-footing", with no stakeholder grouping assuming superiority or control over another.

I am participated in AFNOG ,2001,2003 and 2006 and AFRINIC Meeting, 2001,2003 ,2006 and 2012.

ICANN Meeting 2008,209,2010 and 2012. Member of NCUC, GNSO, ICANN. NomCom 2011 and 2012, Member of AfriNic. Member of ICANN working Groups. Member of Multistakeholder Advisory Group (MAG), for Arab Internet Governance Forum (IGF), 2014 -2015.
